BE A GOOD NEIGHBOUR

Making Your Area Safer, Stable And Reducing Crime

Support your Community Be A Good Neighbour

Do you have elderly vulnerable neighbours? Do you know your neighbours?
The main purpose of being a good neighbour is to promote good citizenship and greater public awareness through Community Safety Partnerships or Neighbourhood Watch groups. Being a good neighbour can help in the prevention and detection of crime, reduce the fear of crime, improve police/community liaison and increase community safety. It is about making sure that no one has to feel afraid, vulnerable or isolated in the place where they live. It's about people looking out for each other, crossing barriers of age, race and class to create real communities that benefit everyone.

Being a good neighbour is easy! Here are a few simple things you can do!

- Ask your neighbours to keep an eye on your home if you are going away, and offer to do the same for them
- If you trust your neighbour, give them a key while you are on holiday so they can come in and draw the curtains for you, collect your post and perhaps even turn lights on and off. This will make your house look lived in and will make it less of a target for burglars – you can then do the same for your neighbour when they are away.
- Ask your neighbour to push your post through the door while you are away
- Arrange for someone from your local police station to give a talk to elderly residents
- Use your security equipment (CCTV, burglar and car alarms, security lighting etc.) responsibly so you do not disturb or infringe upon your neighbour
- Keep an eye out for your elderly neighbours who are more at risk from Bogus Callers
- Make an effort to get to know your neighbours – getting involved in our community safety partnership is a good way to do this
- If you see someone acting suspiciously in your neighbourhood, contact the local police
- If you witness a crime or know any information that may help the police then call Crimestoppers confidentially on 0800 555 111

Policing & Community Safety Partnership

making South Belfast safer

STOP HATE CRIME

South Belfast Policing and Community Safety Partnership (PCSP) was established in April 2012 and brings together the work of the former Community Safety Partnership and District Policing Partnership. It is facilitated by Belfast City Council and overseen regionally by the Department of Justice and the Northern Ireland Policing Board. Membership is made up of elected representatives, publicly appointed members of the community, and organisations which play a role in tackling crime and antisocial behaviour, such as the police.

Through our work we want to help build safer, shared and confident communities throughout Belfast. Our main functions are to:

- deliver services which make a real difference
- consult and engage with the public about their opinions on community safety and policing
- monitor our, and the police's, performance and encourage the public to work with the police in preventing crime.

HELP MAKE BELFAST BETTER.

www.belfastcity.gov.uk/hatecrime This is a Belfast City Council led initiative.

An advertising campaign has been launched in Belfast aimed at encouraging the reporting of hate crime. Previous evidence suggests that only a fifth of these crimes were being reported. PSNI Chief Inspector Gabriel Moran said: "The PSNI has been working with a range of partners to encourage victims of any hate crime to report their experience to police. It is important that reporting takes place when an incident occurs so that evidential opportunities can be maximised. For anyone who may be a witness to a hate crime incident they are also being encouraged to play an active part by providing statements etc so that perpetrators of such crimes can be brought before the courts and successful prosecutions secured.

Police in South Belfast launch Safer Homes Scheme

Police in South Belfast, working with a number of statutory and voluntary agencies, have launched a Safer Homes Scheme to improve the security of resident's homes and in particular the homes of individuals who may have been repeat victims of crime.

The initiative has been funded by the PSNI and the Northern Ireland Housing Executive.

Robert McMurrin, Crime Prevention Officer, South Belfast explains: "Police work closely with community, voluntary and statutory bodies to provide reassurance to victims of crime and to arrange for practical steps to be taken to secure a property which may have damaged as a result of a burglary, anti-social behaviour or hate crime. Security measures can also be implemented where the resident has been the victim of domestic abuse.

"Through this initiative we will be taking referrals from Neighbourhood Police, Victim Support and RECALL. So if you have been the victim of crime or if you have raised concerns in relation to house security you will be contacted by the Crime Prevention Officer to arrange a house visit to assess what practical steps can be taken to improve your home security."

Outlining the types of improvements that residents can access, Chief Inspector Gabriel Moran, Area Commander for South Belfast says: "Improvements can range from fitting additional door locks, a door chain, window locks on ground floor windows and locking devices to vulnerable upstairs windows. In certain instances, it may also be appropriate to provide security lighting, segment timers for internal lighting, property marking kits and personal safety alarms.

Chief Inspector Moran adds: "The fear of crime can be overwhelming for vulnerable individuals. Providing essential security and repairs to those experiencing an immediate threat to their personal safety can dramatically impact on someone's day to day life. We hope that the Safer Homes Scheme will play a key role in helping to reduce the number of repeat victims of crime and in the process reduce the fear of crime."

For further information on this initiative please contact the South Belfast Crime Prevention Officer by telephoning 0845 600 8000.

The 'Drug dealers don't care, do you?' campaign aims to tackle the scourge of drugs in communities, and to encourage the reporting of drug-related activity.

It was launched by Belfast PCSP, in partnership with Crimestoppers, and a number of other agencies, including the PSNI.

The campaign will appear on billboards, buses and taxis across Belfast and Northern Ireland, as well as on radio and online. It targets all those affected by drug trafficking and drug use, especially parents, loved ones of users, concerned communities and actual user and dealers. It's supported by all Belfast District PCSPs and many District PCSPs from across Northern Ireland.
